

Albins Gear appointed "Official Gearbox and Drivetrain Supplier to United States Rally Championship"

Albins Gear announced today that they have come to an agreement with the USRC – United States Rally Championship to become the first official supplier of the series starting this weekend at New York Winter Rally.

Being the largest gear manufacturer in the Southern Hemisphere for over 25 years, and the only manufacture with an ISO 9001 certification, Albins has re-emerged into the gravel, snow and tarmac rally scene of the United States Rally Championship (www.usrallychampionship.com) in 2010. They bring with them a fruitful contingency program with significant incentives for teams wishing to integrate Albins manufactured product into their vehicles.

"With our new relationship with the US Rally Championship, Albins aims to bring its extensive product range to a larger clientele base as seen in this series. We hope that the discounts and marketing opportunities presented will allow competitors to use high end products that were previously just not affordable to the average team" says Tim Possingham, VP of Marketing at Albins Gear.

The program is outlined as follows:

- 1) Any USRC competitor may purchase Albins Gear and Driveline products at anytime throughout the season at a 10% discount.
